A SUNSET THOUGHT
FOR SATURDAY EVENING

Walking once along a shady lane while the harvest moon glimmered through the trees upon the corn-fields, darkened here and there by the piled up sheaves, I met a party of gleaners returning to their cottages, with their little bundles of wheat upon their heads. The Saturday evening of the Christian may be compared to the homeward path of the gleaner. He too, has been wandering over many a field of hope, of learning, or of business. Saturday evening is the gate of Sunday—before him lies

"The sabbath ground to vernal sunshine left." At this gate we ought to sit down and think over all the temptations, the struggles, the hopes, the blessings, the consolations of the week that is gone:—

"Themes of graver tone

Exciting oft our gratitude and love,
While we retrace with memory's pointing wand,
That calls the past to our exact review,
The dangers we have 'scaped, the broken snare,
The disappointed foe, the deliverance found
Unlook'd for, life preserved, and peace restored."

Herbert regarded the Sabbath of our life as the pearls of the Christian year. How diligently and how reverently we have cherished them, will only be known in the day when God shall make up his jewels. Every sixth day throughout the year, the path of life conducts us to the vestibule of Sunday. These regular returns of sacred repose from toil, are admirably adapted to revive in our hearts the flame of decaying devotion. Upon each morning we rise, as it were from the grave of our week-day sorrow, and corruption. We touch with the finger of humble faith the hem of Christ's garment, in the rendering of his halcyon word. We cannot go out to meet our Lord with the crowd that thronged Him from Bethany to Jerusalem; but we meet Him spiritually when we cherish any pure thought or holy emotion; we hear olive branches when we diffuse peace through our own and our neighbors' home; we have palms in our hands when we vanquish the temptations and allurements of sin; we are crowned with flowers if we cultivate the Christian virtues, and put on the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit; we strew our garments in his way, if we cast aside for his sake the trappings of pride and the rich apparel of human praise; our bosoms are repeated in every honor shown to his name; we praise Him in the eternal beauty of the heart, we proclaim Him by the rhetoric of an innocent life.

The consecrated precincts of the Sabbath are not to be approached without solemn preparation. The traveller who reaches his home through the perils and hardships of the Eastern desert, washes his feet, and anoints his head before he reclines at the supper of welcome. The wilderness of human life is not less wearisome, not less painful with dust and glare. Saturday evening brings to the tent of peace, refreshment and repose; while already from the dawning day of holiness, the light shines into his eyes.

"Mild as an opening gleam of promised heaven." Such blessings are not to be used carelessly, or indifferently thrown aside. Every Saturday evening should find us looking over our accounts with time. "He is happy indeed, who can secure every hour to a sober or a pious employment." We may be sober, if the world will not always give us time to be pious; above all, it becomes us to ponder upon the saying of Bishop Butler, that resolutions are lesser acts.

Let us then at the close of every Saturday evening remember, and endeavor to apply to our own benefit, the advice of the learned and good Henry More—to pray continually, and to watch continually, that we may pass from transaction to transaction with a circumspect eye; converting our common business into instruments or aids of moral improvement. To accomplish this object we must take a diligent account of all our

"errors past,

"And make each day a critic to the last"

HOPE AND MEMORY.

A little babe lay in the cradle, and Hope came and kissed it. When its nurse gave it a cake, hope promised another to-morrow; and when its young sister brought a flower, over which it clapped its wings and crowed, hope told of brighter ones which it would gather for itself.

The babe grew to a child, and another friend came and kissed it. Her name was memory. She said, "Look behind thee and tell me what thou seest." The child answered, "I see a little book." And memory said, "I will teach thee to get honey from the book, that will be sweet to thee when thou art old." The child became a youth. Once when he went to his bed, hope and memory stood by the pillow. Hope sang a melodious song and said, "Follow me, and every morning thou shalt wake with a smile as sweet as the pretty lay I sang thee."

But memory said, "Hope is there any need that we should contend. He shall be mine as well as thine; and we shall be to him as sisters all his life long."

So he kissed hope and memory, as he was beloved of them both. While he slept peacefully, they sat silently by his side, weaving rainbow tissues into dreams. When he awoke, they came in with the lark, to a good morning, and he gave a hand to each.

He became a man. Every day Hope guided him to his labor, and every night he supped with Memory at the table of Knowledge.

But at length Age found him, and turned his temples grey. To his eye the world seems altered—Memory sat by his elbow chair, like an old and tried friend. He looked at her seriously and said, "Hast thou not lost something that I entrusted to thee?"

And she answered, "I fear so; for the lock of my casement is worn. Sometimes I am weary and sleepy, and time pollutes my key. But the gems that thou didst give me, when life was new—I can account for all—see how bright they are!"

While they thus sadly conversed, Hope put forth a wing that she had worn, folded under her garment, and tried its strength in a heavenward flight.

The old man laid down to die, and when the soul went forth from the body, the angels took it; and Memory walked with it through the open gate of Heaven. But hope lay down at the threshold, and gently expired, as a rose giveth out her last odors.

Her parting sigh was like the music of a seraph's harp. She breathed it into a glorious form, and said, "Immortal happiness! I bring thee a soul that I have led through the world. It is now time that Jesus hath redeemed it." [Mrs Sigourney.]

TIS BEAUTIFUL.

'Tis beautiful when moon-light throws
Its mantle o'er the plain—
When earth is hushed in soft repose,
And sweet affections throng the air
Of those who love and those who share
Each other's joy and pain.

'Tis beautiful when glassy lakes
Reflect the star-lit skies—
When every voice of echo wakes
A feeling of the distant past—
Of memories that linger last—
Whose magic never dies.

'Tis beautiful when Friendship's wreath
Has decked the maiden's brow:
When every thought and wish and breath
Is sympathy with those who feel
For other's woe, and other's weal.

'Tis beautiful when those who love
Their trembling thoughts define,
When heart to heart responsive move,
And every pulse beats high with strife,
And holiest feelings spring to life—
'Tis more than beautiful—sublime.

TO A FRIEND AT PARTING.

'Tis well when evening zephyrs play
Upon the silvery moon lit plain,
In museful love-liness to stray,
And live the friendly past again.

The past—it is a pensive book,
Whose records we must ever own,
Though melancholy there to look,
And see how all its joys have flown.

The past—'tis dear by many ties,
We ever love to reckon ours,
Which strengthen as the phantom flies,
And bind us to its flying hours.

The present—soon 'twill be—the past;
Its heart warm sympathies decline—
But shall not memory till the last
Retain its image in her shrine?

CONSUMPTION'S LIVER COMPLAINT.
Dr Taylor's Liver Balm of LIVERWORT.

From 375 Bowery, New York.

FOR the cure of coughs, colds, catarrhs, Asthma, soreness of the chest, pain in the side and breast, raising blood, liver complaints, bronchitis, and all affections of the throat and lungs, which are a source of so much suffering, and so often terminate in consumption, this remedy is highly and justly distinguished. It is purely vegetable, mild and gentle in its effects upon the system, and can be taken in the most delicate cases with safety, as well as utility. So extensively has it been used and so often proved successful even in difficult and apparently almost hopeless cases, that the proprietor feels no hesitancy in recommending it to any and all who unfortunately may have occasion to resort to some means of recovery.

Physicians, aware of its medicinal properties and witnessing its effects often prescribe it in their practice, both as a palliative and a remedy, and with the medical faculty generally it has met with more than ordinary approbation; and there are persons in this vicinity who can testify of its healing qualities, and who have received great benefit from the use of it.—Certificates could be furnished in abundance from persons of the highest respectability who have been greatly relieved or entirely cured by the use of this medicine, but we deem it not necessary to publish them here as the medicine is so generally known throughout the country. For a common cold and cough this is one of the very best remedies ever discovered. N. B. There is a spurious and counterfeit article afloat, and lately introduced into this place. Therefore be careful to get the genuine which is from 375 Bowery New York, and see that the new steel plate label is on the bottle to prevent counterfeits and buy as above or of LUTHER JEWETT, St. Johnsbury, Dana, Weeks & Stanton, Danville, Edwards & Mansfield, Walden, Fuller, Ide & Co. ## USE FOR COUGHS, COLDS,

AND ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS.

THE VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALM.

Is believed to be decidedly the most popular Medicine ever known in America, for coughs, colds, asthma or phthisis, consumption, whooping cough, and Pulmonary affections of every kind.

[Extracts from Certificates.]

Dr. Samuel Morrill, of Concord, N. H., writes that he is satisfied the Vegetable Pulmonary Balm is a valuable medicine, having been used with complete success in cases which had previously resisted the most approved prescriptions.

Dr. Truman Abell, of Lemington, N. H., writes that he confidently recommends its use in all complaints of the chest, as equal, if not superior to any other medicine within his knowledge.

Dr. Amory Hunting, of Franklin, Mass., writes after having prescribed the usual remedies without relief, and having consulted with several eminent physicians, he has found the Vegetable Pulmonary Balm to have had the desired effect, and recommends it as a safe, convenient and efficacious medicine.

The public are particularly cautioned against the many Counterfeits or Imitations, which have partially or wholly assumed the name of the genuine article.

Be assured that it is not genuine unless one or both of the written signatures of SAMUEL REED or WM. JONAS CUTLER, are found attached to a yellow label on a line envelope. (All labels of and after the date of Dec. 1839, will have the written signature of Wm. Jonas Cutler.)—Prepared by REED, WING & CUTLER, (late Low & Reed,) Wholesale Druggists, 54 Chatham street, Boston, and sold by Druggists, Apothecaries and Country Merchants generally. Price 50 cts.

LION OF THE DAY.

To the citizens of the United States and the Canada is respectfully submitted this Directory to the means for regaining that which has been partially, and in some instances, totally lost.

What blessing should be prized above that of health and who knows better how to prize the blessing than those who have been deprived of it? It is an old adage, (and one that contains a wise injunction,) "in a time of peace, prepare for war." We would in time of health prepare for the attacks of that stealthy foe, Disease. It would be wisdom to observe his movements, to scan well the firm in which he approaches and then to meet him with those means which are calculated to effect their overthrow. Those means are now before this enlightened and intelligent community. They are accessible to the poor as well as rich, and I trust those who regard the Constitution of man as one of the finest specimens of Divine workmanship, and the laws by which the system is governed and directed, as originating in no other than in the councils of heaven, will so far obey the injunctions of the latter as to provide the best safeguard for the former.

It is with the most flattering recommendations, subscribed by the most eminent Medical Gentlemen, not only in this country but also in Europe, that I offer this valuable Medicine to this American people.

Time and a full opportunity for a fair and impartial trial have placed the Lion of the Day beyond the brand of imposition, humbug quackery, &c.

This pill is composed of extracts of nine parts of the vegetable kingdom, (being entirely free of any drug of deleterious nature,) and adapted particularly to cleansing of the stomach, blood, & the various secretions of the human system, bilious Fevers, Cholera, Piles, Fever and Ague, Jaundice, scarlet Rash, Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Costiveness, Asthma, and liver Complaint have been cured, by using these Pills according to the direction accompanying each box.

It is not intended that this medicine is a cure for all Diseases to which the human system is liable.

Many efforts have been made to compound a Medicine which would cure all Diseases, but have failed. Those diseases enumerated above are within the power of these Pills and a sure cure or relief is warranted.

Price, 25 and 37 1/2 cents per box.
